

Inform

I would like to inform you that I had no prior experience with JavaServer Faces (JSF), and I found configuring it with the GlassFish server to be quite challenging. However, I do have a solid understanding of Servlets and JSP, which enabled me to approach the assigned task using these technologies instead.

To successfully complete the project, I regulated the requirements to fit within the Servlet and JSP framework and configured the application to run smoothly on GlassFish Server version 5.1, utilizing JDK 8 as the runtime environment. For development, I chose to work with NetBeans IDE 12.6, which provided a stable and supportive platform for building and deploying the project.

By adapting the task to technologies I am familiar with, I was able to fulfill the project requirements effectively and ensure proper integration with the GlassFish server environment.
